"Say yes," whispered Lawyer Hart in his client's ear. "Yes, Your Honor." said Young, hardly above the barest whisper.

TO STATE PRISON FOR LIFE.

"I then sentence you to imprisonment in State Prison at hard labor for the rest of your natural life. Sit down."

Young did not seem to hear the words. He still stood.

"Sit down," said the Court again very sharply. Young was dragged down to his seat by his brother and hurried over to the Tombs.

Justice Herrick then turned to the jury:

"It is but right to tell you, gentlemen," he said, "that the Court advised the defendant's counsel to tender this plea, and also advised the District-Attorney to accept it. You have been detained here some time, and it is only just to you to explain the reason for the action taken. It was because of the man's mental condition. As you were doubtless aware, he has been under medical surveillance. The report of the medical examination made of him to me by the District-Attorney in substance states that this man is not insane in the legal acceptation of insanity. From a purely medical point of view he is not sane. To relieve a man of responsibility for crime because of insanity it is necessary to show that his insanity prevented him from knowing the difference between right and wrong.

HE KNOWS RIGHT FROM WRONG.

"isn insane man, medically sane, who does not know the difference between right and wrong, is responsible under the law. This man's condition. as described to me. is of that class. While mentally unbalanced and subject to delusions, he does know the difference between right and wrong. and therefore is responsible for his acts.

"It is bard to tell where the one line verges into the other. His insanity is of the kind called progressive. It seemed to me that the law was not warranted in inflicting the death penalty in this case, and that the law should be satisfied with a plea that would confine this man to prison for life rather than there should be any question that the law might have put to death a possibly irresponsible man.

District-Attorney Jerome and Mr. Hart bowed their concurrence with Justice Herrick's views. The jurors were discharged, with the thanks of the Court, and the county detectives, of whom there were nearly as many as there were witnesses, released the witnesses from the vows of secrecy they had exacted from them. The witnesses, more than half of whom were women, seemed disappointed and surprised that nobody wanted to know what they had been going to testify to.

NEWS CABLED TO YOUNG'S FATHER.

Immediately after Young was taken to the Tombs the lawyers went to the chambers of Justice Herrick and had another conference, after which Lawyer Andrews, representing John W. Young, the murderer's father, who is now ill in Paris, sent the father a cable announcing that his boy had been see. sentenced to life imprisonment on his plea, although he had been admitted a wild beast. to be medically insane.

From this it is inferred that his friends still have hope that they will be able to save Young eventually. It is expected that they will apply to have him sent to an asylum, and then their plans will develop according to how soon the public forgets the horrible butchery of Mrs. Pulitzer.

WHY COUNTY ACCEPTED THE PLEA.

District-Attorney Jerome said:

"In view of the reports of the medical experts that they considered Young medically, if not legally, insane, I concluded the wiese course would be to accept the plea of guilty which Young had been wanting to make for two weeks. We have saved the county a lot of money and probably have got Young punished as heavily as we could have had the trial gone on."

Assistant District-Attorney Clarke, who had charge of the witnesses in

While we believe that Young was sane when he committed this crime. he has had delusions. We could have proved that he was sane at the time of the crime by the way he concealed the evidences of the murder and the way he planned to escape. However, a jury of twelve men, owing to the Venezuela Protocol Presented Wall Street Broker Who "Kited" testimony of the experts which would have shown him to be medically insane, might have had one man on it who would have thought him legally incane, and therefore there might have been a disagreement or a compromise yerdict. A compromise verdict would have resulted in a no greater sentence than Young gets under this plea and the county is saved the burden of the trial.

YOUNG'S COUNSEL SAYS THIS IS ONLY FIRST STEP.

Lewyer W. S. S. Hart in discussing the unexpected phase of the case

"In the first place what led up to the climax to-day began some weeks ago when I talked of the physical condition of Young with Assistant District-Attorney Clarke. It was gently intimated to me then that a plea to murder in the second degree would be acceptable to the District-Attorney.

When I talked of the physical condition of Young with Assistant District-Attorney Clarke. "However, I was determined to make a fight for his life, and shall continue to do so. This is the first stage of my battle. In fact, it is the tial treatment in advance of the sul first platform of a series of platforms decided upon. I have succeeded in saving his life-it is the greatest victory of my professional career.

"When Justice Herrick suggested to the District-Attorney and me, after hearing the reports of the medical experts employed on both sides to the therefore declined to sign it in its preseffect that Young had been medically insane from birth, that a plea of ent form, which necessitates a refermurder in the second degree would be acceptable, I immediately conferred ence of the document back to Berlin with Young. That was before court opened to-day.

"Young stated that he was only too glad to make such a plea. I had him the authorities here that this phase of write his desire, so that I might be relieved in a professional way of the the subject could be closed and the esponsibility of his action. He is delusionarily insane."

Here Young's counsel made the startling admission in an indirect way bearing more than their share of the that he did not have any belief in the innocence of his client. He said:

"I believe that Young is thoroughly honest in his delusion that somebody else committed the crime. He has held all along that he was innosent. In the face of the most convincing evidence, and without attempting any explanation of his actions during the time the crime was committed, he has stubbornly refused to acknowledge his guilt. If he was shamming insanity he was shamming to me as well as to the public."

Concerning future plans in behalf of Young, Lawyer Hart said: "Our next step will be to have the plea changed from murder in the second de- these negotiations, for although naturally gree to manslaughter, if that is possible. His life is spared, and nothing worse than life imprisonment can be given Young. The proper place for Young is an asylum for the insane. Just how this can be attained is not exactly clear at this time, but I am sure that a way can be found to bring about this desired end. It is not impossible that Young will eventually get his freedom—that is, if he is properly treated in an insane asylum and his mind brought to a healthy state.
